Tokenomics

MONKEY is an ERC20 token on the Ethereum blockchain. It's designed to be deflationary, burning away at itself with every transaction. There were no team tokens allocated at launch, and the project today is 100% community owned and operated. There are no developer wallets or marketing wallets, meaning the community rallies together to raise funds, thus making MONKEY a pure DeFi project.

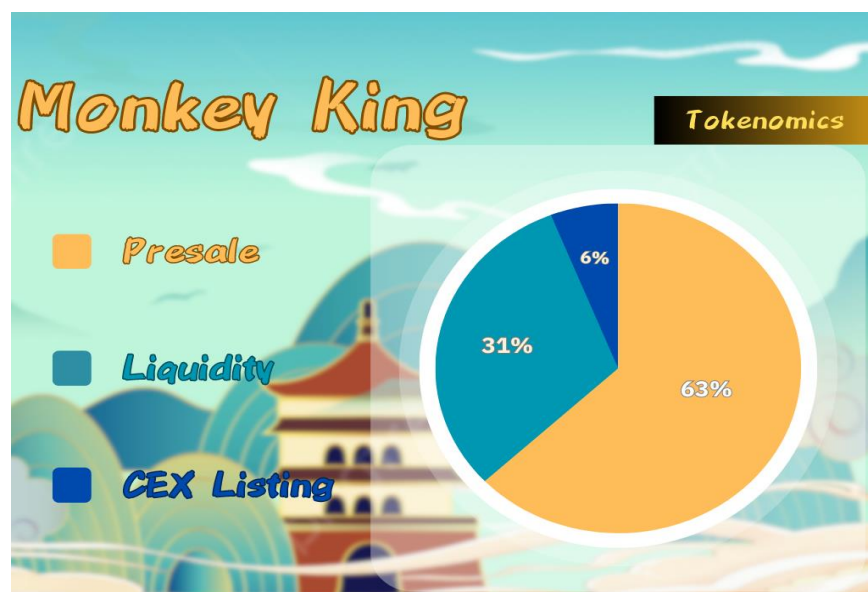

The tokenomics of MONKEY reflect a unique vision where the developers have relinquished any control and ownership, making it entirely community-driven. This aligns perfectly with the dream of China going global, as the decisions and actions are now in the hands of the community. By giving the power to the people, MONKEY embraces the principles of decentralization, transparency, and inclusivity, echoing the aspirations of the Chinese dream. This community-driven approach fosters a strong sense of ownership and responsibility among the participants, ensuring that the project evolves organically with collective wisdom and consensus. With the community at the helm, MONKEY has the potential to become a symbol of empowerment, innovation, and cultural exchange, embodying the spirit of a united and progressive global community driven by the ideals of the Chinese dream.
